

Trade and employment impacts: Case studies on employment impacts of U.S.-Africa trade in selected a

Project Title	Trade and employment impacts: Case studies on employment impacts of U.S.-Africa trade in selected a
Project Summary	The project is to analyze employment generation and other multiplier impacts from trade between United States and Africa in selected agricultural/natural products through case study approach.
Country	United States

Project Description

The links between trade and employment generation and other economy-wide benefits has received attention during the recent period. This proposed research will look into case of selected African agricultural/natural products in which U.S. businesses has been investing in production, procurement and imports from Africa and value addition in U.S. Such investments and imports could generate employment, incomes and value addition both in Africa and in U.S. The proposed research will analyze the employment generation and multiplier impacts from trade and investment in the selected products in both the trading partners and explore the win-win opportunities, if any from such trade and investment relationships.

Required Skills or Interests

Skill(s)

Analytical writing

Data analysis

Economic analysis

Additional Information

None

Language Requirements

None